A Rookies View of T.O.S.R.V. - by Eric Berthelsen

Two years ago a century seemed impossible and last year two centuries back to back seemed impossible. But today both of them are a reality. On May 8, I left for T.O.S.R.V. with Andy Neumann and Teddy Gondert for Columbus, Ohio. (For those of you who didn't know what T.O.S.R.V. is, it is a 100 mile ride from Columbus to Portsmouth on the first day and back to Columbus the next.). I must confess that it was the most fun I had ever had.

The first day was almost perfect, after a few minor repairs (broken spokes & flats). We had gone almost eighty miles before I started to feel the affects of not knowing how to eat on a century ride. (Thanks for pushing (literally) me the last few miles John.) The next day was much better. Pacing myself made the miles go by faster, but I've never felt better than at the time I pulled up to the starting point in Columbus, 210 miles and two days later. Thanks for everything guys.
